PREVENTION • INTERVENTION • RESEARCH

Dear Friends,

The start of each new year is always an opportunity for us to evaluate the previous year and to look ahead, setting new goals and challenges for ourselves and the organization. We think back on the milestones we have achieved together and brainstorm ways we can work to ensure more children, youth and families live free from abuse, neglect and violence.

Throughout 2018-2019, many children, youth and families walked through our doors. From the moment a child or youth is referred to Radius, our role is to listen, support and counsel using the expertise of our multi-disciplinary team of professionals. Our centralized intake, comprehensive assessments and treatment plans, play a big part in building brighter futures.

In 2018-2019, we served 437 children, youth and families/caregivers. This included, but was not limited to, 127 children/youth who received assessments, 191 children/youth who received treatment and 69 children/youth who were provided brief service. Our research team strived to engage our clinicians in the research process and as such, many participated in research and lead research projects. The newly formed Training Institute hit the ground running and trained 1,423 individuals at partner organizations. We are proud of our accomplishments, but know there is more work to be done.

Everything we do at Radius is to improve the lives of the children, youth and families who have suffered from abuse, neglect or violence, but we couldn't do this if it wasn't for the support of our community. With the help and resources of our partners, we look forward to working together to achieve our vision of building a community free from abuse, neglect and violence.

Along with our Board of Directors, we are proud to lead an organization that makes a profound impact on the life of a child. Thank you for your support throughout 2018-2019.

RESEARCH

VALUES AND DIRECTION

We strive to conduct applied research that informs practices and policies. Radius participates in research conducted by community partners, universities, our interdisciplinary clinicians, and our own research department.

Standards and Practices

We provide students and professionals, across all post-secondary academic years and programs/departments, with applied research training, supervision, and support. Our research team works with students onsite and remotely. We endeavour to provide interactive knowledge and skill development procedures for current and future applied developmental researchers.

Projects

Research projects are designed to increase knowledge about our client groups, address gaps in the literature, and focus on topics that inform clinical practice. We conduct both short and long term projects based on our client groups and in collaboration with community partners.

Dissemination

We have a strong commitment to knowledge transfer through conference presentations, manuscripts and reports, guest lectures, and community consultation.

“ Participating on Radius' Ethics Review Committee has been a tremendously stimulating and engaging experience, from a professional and personal standpoint. The existence of such a committee for children's mental health shows an authentic commitment to high quality service and integrity as an organization. The model at Radius demonstrates a best practice that should be replicated in all service agencies and areas wherever and whenever possible. ~

TRAINING & CONSULTATION

OUR APPROACH

Throughout 2018-2019, the Radius Training Institute launched a full suite of offerings to help facilitate the delivery of specialized services to children, youth and families at a local, provincial and national level.

The Radius Training Institute is a multi-disciplinary team of experienced clinicians who are committed to delivering high quality, cost effective training for professionals working in children's mental health. We specialize in training related to the assessment and treatment of children and youth who have experienced trauma, abuse, neglect, and with children and youth who have engaged in sexually harming behaviours.

Radius Training Institute gears its training to children's mental health providers. From concept to implementation, we collaborate with agencies to design and deliver training to meet their unique needs, while maintaining our commitment to best available evidence and practices.

“Having worked in the field of Children's Mental Health for thirty years, I have had the privilege to witness much courage, change and growth among children and families. I was drawn to become a member of the RTI because it gives me the opportunity to work along side highly experienced colleagues, and to contribute to meaningfully advancing our knowledge in the field of trauma. I also feel that the RTI provides me with an exciting platform to encourage new clinicians to join and continue this vital work. ~ Franca Iannotta, C.Psych., Consulting Clinical Therapist
